

Heaven is My Home

I rejoice today that my name is written in Heaven. The moment I decided to become a follower of Jesus the direction of my eternal destiny shifted - I became a citizen of Heaven. As a citizen of Heaven, I will promote the interest of my loving Heavenly Father here on earth because my loyalties are to Him alone. I will live worthy of my citizenship through the power of Christ in me.

I rejoice today that my name is written in Heaven. It was God's desire that I not spend eternity in Hell separated from Him, in fact it is His desire for all mankind. Hell is the eternal destiny of Satan, his demons and those who die refusing to put their faith and trust in Jesus. Hell's existence is the result of the irreconcilable differences between the holy nature of God and sin. The only solution to this dilemma is for God to change the nature of my character and that is what He did by sending His Son to the cross taking my place and paying the penalty for my sin. The results are that I am made holy in Him and I am a citizen of Heaven.

Hell is a place of torment, agony, hopelessness, eternal destruction, isolation, and separation from God. However, my home is Heaven - God's eternal dwelling place. In Heaven, there is no more sorrow, no pain, no sickness, no suffering, no fear, no tears and no more decay. In Heaven, I will no longer live in need of anything. In Heaven, I will see all things clearly that I never fully understood here on earth. I rejoice today that my name is written in Heaven.

When Jesus left this earth, He went to prepare a place for me in Heaven where I will one day live with Him in the presence of God, our loving Heavenly Father. I yearn for my home in Heaven and all the privileges that accompany it. Until then I will live on this earth as a citizen of Heaven by putting God's priorities into practice in my daily life with a focus on the eternal rather than the temporal. After all, God is a God of love, forgiveness, and grace. His desire is that no one spend eternity in the lake of fire, Hell, separated from Him. To this end, as a follower of Jesus, a citizen of Heaven, I will invest my energy in the eternal destination of others. I rejoice today that my name is written in Heaven.
