

DAILY READING: COMMUNION

I will remember the cross of Jesus through communion. It was only His death Jesus told us to remember, not His birth, His life, His words or His works, only His death. I will do this through the ceremony Jesus instituted on the night before He was crucified, commonly known as the Lord's Supper or communion. I will remember what Jesus did for me.

I will remember with a grateful heart that through His grace He chose me. This was His plan and will for me before the beginning of time. I will remember with a grateful heart that He exchanged His life for mine. Jesus stepped in and took my place; as a result I am no longer guilty of sin and am accepted by God the Father. I will remember with a grateful heart that Jesus secured my position as a child of God through the cross. I will remember with a grateful heart that His love sustains me through all things. I will remember the cross of Jesus through communion.

MEMORY VERSE:
1 Corinthians 11:26
 "For every time you eat this bread and drink this cup, you are announcing the Lord's death until he comes again."
1 Corinthians 11:26

The small amount of bread and wine in this supper represents the work of Jesus on the cross. This one act of worship is key to remembering Jesus' sacrifice for me. I will prayerfully prepare my heart for communion through confession of my sin. I ask God to draw me closer to Him and reset my focus on Jesus. As I take the bread, I will remember His body was broken for me. As I drink the wine, I will remember His blood was shed for the forgiveness of my sins and give thanks.

Jesus' desire for me, as His follower, is to remember His sacrifice on the cross made it possible for me to be forgiven of my sins and to have a right relationship with God the Father. I will be nourished and empowered by His Spirit through the act of communion. I am proclaiming my faith as a follower of Jesus, I live in all of the benefits of His resurrection from the dead and in hope of His return. I will remember the cross of Jesus through communion.
